Please provide your substantive comments in the space provided. Substantive comments are those that 1) question, with reasonable basis, the accuracy of the information in the NEPA document; 2) question, with reasonable basis, the adequacy of the environmental analysis; 3) present reasonable alternatives other than those presented in the NEPA document (please be sure to read through all the alternatives, including those “considered but dismissed” prior to commenting), or; 4) cause changes or revisions in the proposal. The comment process is not a voting process—the alternative that gets the greatest number of “votes” is not automatically selected. Please submit substantive comments only, with rational explanations. Write legibly to ensure your comments can be reviewed.
